IFS published
IFS Food Standard version 6

The IFS, international featured standards, is a non-profit organisation founded to establish common standards on quality and safety of food and non-food products for the whole supply chain.

In January 2012, IFS has published the standard for food producing companies in his sixth version. The new version is intended to:

• exclude duplications,
• check the requirements for understanding,
• adapt the Standard to meet current legislation,
• include a food defense check-list in the general audit checklist,
• include all IFS Food doctrines,
• improve understanding of audit protocol,
• determine more precise rules for calculating audit duration,
• improve audit scope definitions,
• update the Standard in accordance with new version of GFSI Guidance Document.

The new IFS Food version 6 will come into force from the 01 July 2012. Until 30 June 2012, companies can only perform IFS Food version 5 audits; after this date, only IFS Food version 6 audits will be acceptable.
